Faculty development program organized by Godavari Institute of Management and Research Jalgaon. Prof. Ashwini H. Patil (Co-ordinate for FDP). Invite speaker guest to Dr. Monali Neve (Sharma) sepech topic for "Data Analysis Using Spss" in explained topic data entry using excel.

Dr. Monali Neve Sharma express views information in Data Evaluation Using Spss in "data entry using excel sheet" data files can be prepared in excel and them imported into spss for analysis. This can be particularly helpful if you have employed survey software (e.g. qualtrics) to collect your data.

1. Set up variable names in excel, using the first row.
2. Enter data for each case. when you have finished, close the excel document.
3. In spss, click on file\open\data and choose excel as file type. click open.
4. Make sure there is a tick in the box „read variable names from the first row of data“.
5. Choose file\save as. make sure that the save as type is set at spss statistics (.sav).
6. You'll need to define each of the labels, values and measure information for your variables.

She further discussed the various tools like tableau (visualization tool), power bi (business intelligence) which is a business analytics service by Microsoft. She briefed about power bi as the interactive visualizations and business intelligence capabilities with an interface for end users to create their own reports and dashboards in real time.
